1128th meeting April 28, 2010 Philippine Coinage, U.S. Colonial Philippines Coinage, 1898-1947, and the “M” mint (reviewed by Herb Miles) One of our newest members, Dan Hipple, gave a very nice presentation on “Philippine Coinage, U.S. Colonial Philippines Coinage, 1898-1947, and the “M” mint.”

Dan’s presentation consisted of a short history of the Spanish-American War which resulted in the United States becoming a “colonial” power by inheriting the Philippine islands. An attempt to introduce U.S. coinage was unsuccessful, and newly designed “Philippine-inspired” coinage was developed and issued beginning in 1903 under U.S. administration.

Dan illustrated his talk with his own collection, passing about a number of specimens and allowing the membership to view the coins closely. It was a very nice talk, going through the various designs, designers, and histories of the mints which struck coins, including San Francisco, Denver, and a newly constructed Manila Mint.

Actually, the Philippines coinage from 1903 through 1945 was under U.S. jurisdiction and can be considered a part of United States coinage! It is a handsome series of coins and deserves more attention by collectors.

April 2010 Exhibits

Jerry brought a whole box of “stuff” including a “good for” token with “PEKIN” inscribed in English and in Chinese characters; Issued about 1908, the location was 1111 ½ Grant (then called Dupont). Jerry also brought some foreign coins which Steve identified as an Isalei Lepton and an Indian State silver piece.

Speaker Dan brought a nice old book (1885) by George S. Evans on the U.S. Mint, its coinage, personnel, and its history and his extensive Philippine collection.

Ken brought some postal savings stamps which were used during the World Wars; one would fill up a booklet and then turn it in for a War Bond. In honor of our talk on Philippine coinage, Ken also brought some Philippine stamps from the time of the U.S. occupation during 1899-1904.

Federico exhibited two tokens, one from Costa Rica featuring Alvaro Chacon’s likeness (a big ego per Federico!). His second token was denominated 1 litro or 1 liter, similar to our own dairy tokens. This liter, however, referred to pulque, a potent alcoholic beverage with which the workers on Senor Chacon’s plantation were paid. I guess that kept them coming back for more.

Herb exhibited a nice book featuring picture postcards of the three main fairs held in the San Francisco area, the 1894 MidWinter, the 1915 Panama Pacific International Exposition and the 1939 Treasure Island fair. Herb also brought a bracelet or other trinket made from Philippine 10 centavos.

Michael brought his large CSNA Educational Symposium medal that he was present for speaking at the Southern California event and a huge German Medal featuring the Golden Gate Bridge; the Germans actually wore this enormous item per Michael while hiking, and lastly he exhibited two small Golden Gate Bridge tokens from the estate of the bridge engineer.
